There are many ways to promote Americanism and love of country. The things I can do include volunteering in school clubs or programs, which helps my community, which ultimately leads to helping my country. The clubs I am in include Helping Hands, Builders Club, and I also intend on joining the Power of the Pen club. Helping Hands is a disability awareness program that helps people of all ages learn attitudes of acceptance, dignity and respect toward all people. In Helping Hands some activities we are doing/did are a football tailgate for students with disabilities and the Helping Hands members, as well as an upcoming dance for student which helps promote acceptance and awareness. We also are going to do a new student breakfast for all the kids who are new to our school district, making this an easy way to make new friends. Builders Club is an international student-led organization providing members with opportunities to perform service, build character and develop leadership. I like builders club because its main focus is to help out in my own community. In builders club, so far we have done a pancake breakfast which is where you serve free food to community in our school cafeteria. Some other activities I will be doing in Builders Club include fundraising and babysitting.

Some more minor ways to promote love of country is by wearing red, white, and blue on the 4th of July. Also there are always shelters that need help cooking and taking care of people in need. Picking up litter in the neighborhood also helps, which could be just as easy as going around in your yard and picking it up. What do you do in support of your country? There are many ways to show love of country and these are mine!
